Another lot of these celebrated

STEAM WASHERS

Which rival all kinds of Washing Machines has arrived. Men who wish to make continuous use of their clothes, and who do not should not fail to avail themselves of the present opportunity of taking one home. No wash-board; no hard rubbing; does not soil clothing; washes with steam, and no labor whatever; file any stain; put it on after breakfast is ready, and by the time you get dressed, the clothes are clean and bright.
(and right here, ladies, let me say all I can for it. I do not ask you to buy it if it will not prove to your satisfaction an indispensable machine.

Give it a trial, according to instructions, before giving your decision, and if you find you are determined not to be satisfied, return it and no charges. I could give you many good testimonials, but as my Washers sell entirely on their own merits, I ask none. For cutlery and fannels, fine lace collars, etc., this would be a cheap washer if it would do no more.
Certainly does all claimed for it. Sold at

A woman correspondent of the Boston

Journal, writing from the Bayou de Plantation, Iberville parish, Louisiana, gives a vivid picture of that neighborhood during the flood. We quote:

"For weeks, since March, the river has been steadily rising out of its banks leaves to the very top, and running over the waves of every passing steamer. All plantation work was abandoned, and along the bank on both sides of the river for hundreds of miles negroes and planters toiled day and night, building the levees higher with staves and earth, strengthening the weak places, and, as the dikes say: "Fighting the river every where." With fear and trembling we fell asleep at night, for the river one or two inches higher at dawn

THE HUMAN LOCOMOTIVE should be carefully nursed, otherwise it may run off the rails of life at any moment. To keep its delicately constructed machinery in perfect trim, or to bring it back to good working condition when out of order is the peculiar province of Warrant's Effervescent Seltzer Aperient.

It is thoroughness with which it cleanses, and its irritating effect on the bowels; the tone and which it imparts to the stomach; its refreshing effect; its cooling, refreshing effect in fever; the relief it affords in indigestion; its antacid properties, and its merit as a general corrective, justify its recommendation by all comparison.
It is a valuable family medicine of the age, and every druggist.
